A Prayer For the Queen.

Years ago there was a quaint old parson who ruled with a high hand (impossible now) in his parish. Only recently was he taken, at a very advanced age. He had a kind sympathy with his sovereign, grown old like himself. In Scotland the sovereign is prayed for in church in words chosen at the discretion of the officiating minister. That ancient priest was wont to say, every Sunday: "Lord have mercy on the queen. And now that she has become an old woman, make her a new man." I may venture to say that the individual interested in that very sincere petition thought it an extremely good one. It was better by far than when a bewildered youth, who had wholly forgotten the terms in which he was to utter the national prayers, after having named the sovereign, stood a space in awful silence, the congregation all gaping; then in desperation burst forth, "May she not be a wicked woman!"

There was a quite different kind of queen, for whom in certain kinks the prayers were once omitted. The elders waited on the ministers, and said that all the congregation desired that the unhappy person in question might be prayed for. And indeed it is inconceivable that any one who could pray for her husband should have had any difficulty in praying for any human being whatever. "Oh, yes," replied the minister, "I'll pray for the queen, if you wish it." Accordingly, on the next Sunday, the expectant flock listened to if they did not quite join in the remarkable words: "Lord, have mercy on the queen. Pardon her numerous and highly aggravated sins." — Longman's Magazine.

Flowers That Cheer No.

His "man" is not a well trained example of British imperturbability, but a boy from the southern plantation where he himself was born and bred. Consequently there are frequent interchanges of confidence between master and servant, and the former has the advantage of the latter's unbiased judgment and unobscured vision on many subjects. The other day the employee was ordered to purchase and carry flowers to a certain lady who was ill. In the course of a few days came her thanks for "the bunch of immortelles so thoughtfully if not cheerfully sent," whereupon the nominal sender of the funeral offering summoned his agent, and with choice invective, demanded to know why immortelles had been taken to a sick woman.

"Well, Master Sewell," explained the purchaser of the post, "you say you got anything that's pretty. Does your wife purty, on de man say dey has far evah, on I culetated dat dey cheap enuf; s' I can pay de laundry wif de change. I'm shuh I thought I was actin fish de best." And the employer reflected on the disadvantages of having a servant with views of his own. — New York Journal.

The Chance of a Lifetime.
"It is said," he remarked reflectively, "that women's hands are growing larger."

"Yes," she returned inquiringly.
"Yes," he asserted, "and the worst of it is that there is every likelihood that this tendency will continue."
"Yes," she said in the same inquiring tone.
"Yes," he repeated, "you see, the bicycle and golf and tennis and other sports that women have recently taken up are responsible for it."
"In that case," she said, with a glance at her own dainty hands, "you'd better speak quick if you want a small one."
He realized that it was the opportunity of a life time, and he spoke promptly. — Chicago Post.

A Hint of an Opinion.
Neil—What a breezy young man Mr. Cleveland is!
Beth—Breezy? I haven't seen him blowing in anything. — Philadelphia Record.

Child—Is it a Boy or a Girl?
"Is it a boy or a girl?" is a question asked in domestic circles in the west country hundreds of times every day. A "cheer" is, of course, a girl. Mrs. Hewitt, in her "Faintest Speech of Devotion" (1892), thus illustrates the use of the word: "Well, miss, what's this missis got these time, then? A boy or a cheer (daughter)?"

This expression is sometimes heard in the north of England. For instance, "Is it a boy or a child?" When asked for an explanation, the answer is, "A boy is a boy; a girl is a child."
It may be worthy of note that the phrase, "a young person," as properly employed, is almost invariably used of a female. — Notes and Queries.

She Will Tell.
Lulu—We girls are getting up a secret society of our own.
George—Indeed! What's the object? Lulu—I don't know yet, but I'll tell you all about it after I'm initiated. — Strand Magazine.

What an ordinary man eats

and the way he eats it would be enough to give dyspepsia to an ostrich—unless the ostrich were wise enough to assist his digestion from time to time, with an efficient combination of vegetable extracts.

Such a preparation is Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are the pills par excellence for those who sometimes eat the wrong things and too much. They stimulate action in all of the digestive organs. They stop sour stomach, windy belchings, heartburn, flatulence and cure constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache and kindred derangements.

They are gentle, but prompt in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels, and have none of the unpleasant features of other pills. They do not gripe and cause no violent shock to the system.

One little "Pellet" is a laxative. Two are mildly cathartic. One taken after dinner insures perfect digestion, sound sleep and an absence of foul breath in the morning.

They are unlike ordinary pills, because you do not become a slave to their use. They not only afford temporary relief, but effect a permanent cure.

Once used they are always in favor. Your name and address on a postal card will bring a free sample package of 4 to 7 doses. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

CAUTION.—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let some designing dealer persuade you to take some pills represented as "just as good." He makes more profit on the "just as good" kind. That's why he prefers to sell them. That's the reason why you better not take them.

REPUBLICAN SOMERSAULTS.

Two years ago the Republicans of Nevada declared the silver question to be paramount to every other. They told us that the act of 1873 was a grave wrong; that it increased the burden of debts; that it paralyzed the productive energies of the entire country; that it depressed business of every kind, except the money lending; that there can be no permanent return of prosperity to our country until silver shall have been restored to its full use and position as a money metal; and as the only perfect method of restoring it, demanded its free and unlimited coinage at the rate of 16 ounces of silver to one ounce of gold by the United States acting independent and wholly regardless of what other nations may or may not do. They also proclaimed through the press and on every street corner that the Silver party was owned, body and soul, by the railroads and that it was being conducted in the interest of the corporations.

Last week the State Conventions of the Silver party and of the Republican party were held. The Silver party declared for free coinage as heretofore, and demanded the collection of the indebtedness of the Pacific railway companies, as it matures, without extension of time or change of terms or conditions, and also demanded the enforcement of the Interstate Commerce act.

What did the Republicans do with these questions? Let the platform of their convention held last week at Carson answer. It says: "The Republicans of Nevada, in State Convention, renew their allegiance to the principles of the Republican party as authoritatively proclaimed by the St. Louis platform and officially represented by our standard bearers, William McKinley and Garrett A. Hobart." Compare that with the platform which the Republican party adopted two years ago and then you will cease to wonder why so many Republicans declare for Bryan, and wonder that any self-respecting citizen can remain with a party that has turned such a complete somersault. Then read the proceedings of the Republican State Convention and see how its actions refute the allegation that the party machine is not run by the corporations. A resolution demanding the prompt and rigid enforcement of the Government's lien on the bonded railroads was defeated and every candidate, with possibly one exception, who voted for putting the resolution in the platform was turned down.

Can any intelligent citizen of Nevada who desires to be consistent and to maintain his self-respect, affiliate with such a party? If it was sincere two years ago it is practicing the grossest deception now, and if it is sincere now it has been deceiving the people heretofore. It is true that there is not much of the party left and if people were not wedded to party names there would not be any of it except the pickaninny contingent.

DEMAND FOR SILVER DOLLARS.

The Treasury Department at Washington is in daily receipt of a large number of requests for silver dollars of this year's coinage. This demand is principally from gold men who desire to use them in the campaign to convince the public that silver dollars are now being coined. It appears that the Treasury Department has been preparing for this demand. A few months ago the Philadelphia and San Francisco mints were ordered to coin silver dollars. The object of this order was not then understood, as only a few million silver dollars had been coined since May, 1893, when an order was issued suspending the coinage of standard dollars altogether. When Cleveland entered the White House the second time there were about 30,000,000 silver dollars in the Treasury. In 1893 the stock was exhausted and during the panic standard dollars commanded a premium of about two per cent in New York. Since February 1st of this year about 11,000,000 of the coins have been struck at the mints, but it appears that they are not sufficient to supply the demand. It would take about 70,000,000 to give each inhabitant of the United States a single dollar each and though there is sufficient bullion in the Treasury for twice that number of dollars it has been permitted to remain there useless as its bulk of cobble stones, while the Treasury notes paid out some years ago for its purchase have been redeemed in gold. The gold syndicate did not want it coined, as it would increase the volume of money, but now that dollars of 1896 are wanted for campaign purposes, they are being coined at the rate of 2,000,000 a month to give the gold orators, home and imported, opportunity to allege that though silver is being coined it does not relieve the general distress.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

An election was held in Maine yesterday for Governor and other State officers. While national politics figured to a considerable extent in the campaign local issues were also a factor. The Democratic State Convention adopted a gold plank and nominated a candidate for Governor on that platform. Subsequently the nominee for Governor declined, another State Convention was held and a free coinage candidate nominated. This, of course, demoralized the Democrats to a considerable extent and, according to report, one of Mr. Hanna's barrels was opened in the State for the purpose of still further disrupting the Democrats. As the State gave the Republicans a plurality of 88,978 in a total vote of 108,271 in 1894 it seemed scarcely necessary for the Republicans to make a very great effort to carry the State yesterday, but it was deemed essential to offset the effect of the Alabama and Arkansas elections. Mr. Hanna's lieutenant governor was elected with 20,000 majority yesterday, but they did all that money could do to make it twice that, as any falling off in the majority of two years ago would indicate a change of sentiment in New England and that would have a bad effect in the west.

Two years ago the Republicans polled 64.28 per cent; the Populists, 4.91 per cent, and the Prohibitionists 25.0 per cent of the total vote of the State. With the efforts they have made this year and the fact that some of their best speakers have been on the stump during the campaign, while the Bryan men have let the State go by default, anything less than two-thirds of the entire vote for the Republicans will indicate that they are losing ground in their strongholds.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

The indications point to a large Republican gain.

Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 14.—One hundred and fifty towns in Maine give Powers (Rep.) a plurality of 21,503. The same towns in 1894 gave Cleaves 28,418, Johnson 11,572, scattering 3,060. Cleaves plurality 16,845, a Republican gain of 4,557 plurality.

Major McKinley this evening received the following telegram from Augusta, Maine: "It will certainly be 35,000; looks like 40,000."

PORTLAND, Maine, September 14.—The campaign which culminated today in a Republican victory was the most active known for years on both sides. There are five candidates for Governor. The name of William Henry Clifford of Portland, the nominee of the sound money Democrats, was not upon the official ballot and those voting for him were obliged to write the name upon the ballots. The other candidates were Hon. Lewellyn Powers of Houlton (Rep.); Hon. Melvin P. Frank of Portland (Dem.); Ammi S. Ladd of Calais (Proib.), and Luther O. Batesman of Auburn (Pop.) Congressmen, county officers, State Senators and representatives to the Legislature were elected.

The average estimate of the Republican plurality for Governor was from 25,000 to 28,000 as compared with about 30,000 in 1894 and 12,500 in 1892, but the vote throughout the State was larger than anticipated and the majority for Powers (Rep.) is larger than predicted, the latest returns indicating that it will reach nearly 50,000. In nearly every county, the county officers are Republican by larger pluralities than ever before known and in some counties no candidates were put in the field by the Democrats. In all four of the Congressional districts the present incumbents were re-elected. In the first district Reed's plurality will be over 10,000 as against 8,815 two years ago, while Congressman Dingley, Miliken and Boutelle will go back to the next Congress with a much larger vote than two years ago.

A Popular But Rare Stone of Recent Discovery.

The alexandrite, which owes its name to quite a peculiar series of coincidences. On the day of the coming of age of the Emperor Alexander of Russia the discovery of a new variety of mineral was made in the emerald mines of the Catherine mountains. This stone varied in color from emerald to the darkest green, having often a reddish tint. Its especial peculiarity is that, when exposed to artificial light, its color changes entirely to a beautiful red. As green and red are the national colors of Russia, and in commemorative honor of the day on which the stone was discovered, the name alexandrite was given the mineral and the custom inaugurated of submitting all the finer specimens to the emperor for his selection before dealers are allowed to purchase.—New York Dispatch.

Then She Took It Out.

She was a new nurse at the hospital, and she had been told to use the water at 105 degrees.

The doctor, watching, saw the patient yince. "That water is too hot," he said, testing it. "I said 105 degrees, not 115 degrees."

The nurse turned with dignified protest. "I tested the water two minutes ago," she said. "I put the thermometer in and left it until it touched 105 degrees."—New York Times.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

ANOTHER HOME SOLICIT.

Mrs. S. M. Jamison, One of Reno's Earliest Residents, Passes Away.

Another Reno home was visited by the Angel of Death at an early hour Sunday morning. Mrs. S. M. Jamison, after months of suffering, quietly passed away surrounded by members of her family. Her death, while expected, came as a shock to members of her household. Her life's best energies, her time, her every thought had been given to those she loved, and it was the crowning ambition of her life and her greatest happiness to help those who were near and dear to her. Knowing that she must die, the only regret she expressed was that she would break the family circle that she had so earnestly tried to keep unbroken and for which she had ever pleaded for and advised against when through circumstances some member of the family would contemplate a change of residence on account of business. Up to the last few hours of her life she conversed with those around her, giving advice as to what should be done when she was no more. Just before death came to her relief she seemed to grow weary and laid her head back in the chair she had constantly occupied for the last eight days. A few moments later she closed her eyes, a tremor passed over her frame and her life went out as she had hoped it would. She simply fell asleep never to awaken on earth.

To-day the home she loved so well and which was her world and in which her entire happiness was centered is made desolate, and those whom she loved and who loved her are bowed in deepest grief. The circle is broken and the mother's chair is vacant. Her children and grand children who were wont to go to her in their troubles now stand and look upon the face so dear to them and wonder why those lips so motionless do not speak and those kindly eyes give no sign of recognition. They look at the dear form lying there so still and murmur, poor mother.

Thou art gone to thy eternal rest, and while we mourn for thee, we know that thou hast won thy crown, for never was there a truer exemplification of a Christian life, a more charitable or kinder heart nor a more forgiving nature. May thy rest be as peaceful as that of the babe nestling on its mother's breast, and, as one by one, those of your family circle are called to cross the dark river, may thou then be our guide as thou hast been in life.

Mrs. Jamison was well and favorably known by all old residents of Reno and her ever ready willingness to help those around her, whether members of the family, household or neighbors, will cause her to be greatly missed. She leaves, besides her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Nate W. Roff and Mrs. W. H. McLain, and one son, Lisle Jamison, and six grandchildren to mourn her loss.

Mrs. Jamison was born near Bristol, England, 66 years ago. In her early childhood she came to Canada and in 1833 came to California with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Benjamin. They located in Georgetown and in the winter of that year she was married to S. M. Jamison. They resided in Eldorado and Placer counties until 1858, when they came to Reno and have lived here ever since.

The funeral will take place from the family residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend.

NOW AND THEN.

The Change Wrought by Mr. Hanna.

The Gazette, which now pretends to believe that the free coinage of silver would result in dollars worth 63 cents, was not always of that opinion. October 8, 1892, it copied the following from the National View, approvingly:

"Worth one hundred cents. Have you any kind of a dollar that is worth any more? A silver dollar is worth one hundred cents, when it was first coined 100 years ago it was worth that and it is worth the same now. Cheap money is it? The pretense that it has depreciated is a myth; there is nothing in it. Just 100 cents, no more or less. We are not to be fooled by the price of silver bullion whatever that may be. We do not care what the value of the material is, the value of a gold dollar and a silver dollar is fixed by the Government and so it will remain without rebate."

Since Mr. Hanna declared that it is uncharistic to publish facts like the above our contemporary would not reproduce it approvingly in its editorial columns as it did before unless it was paid for in advance.

Inspecting Experiment Stations.

Major Henry E. Alwood of the Dairy Division United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., arrived in Reno yesterday. He visited the State University and the Agricultural Experiment Station and was the guest of Professor McDowell while he remained in town. He said Lincoln Hall and the Girl's Cottage are as well adapted to the purposes for which they were erected as any he has seen and he has visited nearly all the State Universities in the United States. He visited the Reno Creamery and was favorably impressed with the manner in which it is conducted. He leaves for California this morning and will attend the State Fair, after which he will go to Oregon. He is a high authority on dairy products and is visiting the Agricultural Experiment Station on the coast.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

H. B. Cossitt, an Early Pioneer of Washoe County, Passes Over the Dark River.

H. B. Cossitt, one of Washoe county's pioneer residents, died yesterday morning. He has been in poor health for a number of years, and when death came it was not unexpected. H. B. Cossitt was at one time a prominent lawyer of Sierra and Yuba counties, having in the early days associated himself in the practice of law with Hon. Wm. M. Stewart, Thos. Kitch, Col. R. H. Taylor and others. For a number of years he lived at Downsville and when the Washoe excitement was at its height he crossed the mountains and located at Washoe City. Later he came to Reno and has resided here since. He held the position of District Attorney of this county for some time. His road through life has been a hard one and though gifted with more than ordinary talent for the profession he adopted, he, like many men in life, seemed to have been peculiarly unfortunate and what might have been a brilliant career, surrounding circumstances caused to be a failure.

Through adversity and trouble Judge Cossitt always maintained a dignified appearance and kept his sorrows and troubles to himself, seldom if ever communicating them to his fellows and then reluctantly. He was a kind-hearted man and his liberality was one of his greatest faults. He was born in Ohio, and 71 years of age. Although unfortunate for many years past he has always prided himself on it is honor and none but the kindest words will be spoken of him by those who knew him best.

Some Questions About Silver.

To the Editors of the Outlook:

On the silver question I would like to propound a few questions, which are perhaps the kernel of the argument we offer:

1. Is it not true that if two products have precisely the same uses, their relative value (commercial ratio) will depend upon their relative available quantities?

2. Is it not true that the silver and gold available for coinage in the world amounts to about four billions of dollars of each, coined at a ratio of 15 1/2 to 1 or 16 to 1?

3. Is it not true that for a period of seventy years, from 1803 to 1873, the ratio between gold and silver fluctuated very slightly, compared to the fluctuations since 1873?

4. During that period were not France and the United States coining freely at a ratio not less than 15 to 1 nor more than 16 to 1?

5. During that period were not the mints of England closed against the free coinage of silver? (As they are today.)

6. Admitting the statement first made, is not the fall in the price of silver due to the destruction of one of its uses, and not to its increased production, compared with gold?

7. If all the world should demonetize gold to-day, and make silver sole legal tender, would an ounce of gold buy as many ounces of silver as it now does?

8. If not, why not?

9. Will a Mexican silver dollar not buy just as much of any given list of commodities to-day as it would when silver was worth $1.29 an ounce?

10. Will a gold dollar buy only as much to-day as it would ten or fifteen years ago?

The above is our defense. Now for our attack.

11. What rule of honesty requires the United States Government to pay gold for obligations calling for coin?

12. What rule of honesty is violated if the dollar I tender in payment of a debt will buy just as much as the dollar I borrowed?

13. If taxes are not payable in gold, and a few men wish to corner gold, where will the United States Government get gold to pay out when paper is presented for redemption?

14. If from the sale of bonds, just about how long will this bond-selling continue, and how many billions of debt will it load upon us?

15. If free coinage should bring a flood of silver to our shores, what will become of the silver after it is coined?

17. If it is used to buy our commodities, will that make a panic? Did any nation ever go to disaster because it had too much specie?

18. The mine-owners are alleged to be making large contributions to the campaign fund of the Democratic-Populist party. I believe they are. But what will it profit them if silver does not go up?

19. If it does go up, who talks of a 53-cent dollar?

For County Clerk.

In another column will be found the announcement of W. P. McLaughlin for County Clerk subject to the decision of the Democratic Convention. Mr. McLaughlin has been a resident of Reno and has been identified with her progress in public and private life for so many years that his introduction to the people of Washoe county seems superfluous. He is a competent man and no better could be found for the position he seeks. He has had considerable experience in county affairs and this makes him better fitted for the clerkship. He is popular and liberal hearted and will make a thoroughly competent and attentive officer. By helping McLaughlin the voters will be helping themselves. Give "brother," as he is familiarly known, a chance and there will be no cause for regret. If Mac is elected every interest of the town and county will be carefully looked after as far as his duties go and the taxpayers may be assured of a capable and efficient officer.

Bryan Club.

The Bryan Club will hereafter meet as follows:

Thursday evening September 17, Clough & Crosby hall.

Saturday evening, September 20, Ryland hall.

Saturday evening, October 10, Ryland hall.

Saturday evening, October 24, Ryland hall.

Saturday evening, October 31, Ryland hall.

Members of the Club will please take notice accordingly.

A cordial invitation is extended to all voters favoring Wm. J. Bryan for President to attend each meeting and sign the roll.

By order of the Executive Committee.

Your Boy Won't Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

Rich Ore.

H. A. Miller has discovered a gold-bearing lead in Pyramid District about four miles northwest of the old J. & K. works. He has uncovered the lead in a number of places a distance of nearly 1,000 feet. It is about a foot wide and there are streaks in the vein which are very rich in gold. Assays of choice pieces of the ore made at the Reduction Works yesterday averaged $3,000 to the ton in gold. The ore is decomposed and slightly stained with copper. The owners are Hank Miller and Antone Dragovich, who are now prospective millionaires.

Primary Elections.

Next Saturday primary elections will be held in this county for the election of delegates to the Silver party and Democratic Conventions to be held Monday the 21st instant. The calls for these primaries are published in the JOURNAL.

The Populists will also hold a primary election next Saturday to elect delegates to a convention to be held on the 21st inst. Three conventions will, therefore, be held on the same day, and though all the parties profess to be for Bryan they differ, it appears, on other matters.

Questions for Voters to Answer.

The following questions will be submitted to the electors of Reno election precincts at the election to be held on Tuesday November 3, 1896:

1. "Shall Reno be incorporated?"
2. "Shall Reno acquire and operate municipal water works?"
3. "Shall Reno acquire and operate a municipal light plant?"

"Upon a Cross of Gold."

The JOURNAL has received from the publishing house of F. W. Pershing, 1611 Collins street, Joliet, Ill., a piece of campaign music entitled "Upon a Cross of Gold." On the title page is a fine picture of Wm. J. Bryan. The song can be had by sending to the above address.

Mrs. B. E. Hunter is the busy woman who has in less than four years, here in Reno, sold Thirteen Thousand Seven Hundred dollars worth of Viat remedies. The reason so much has been sold is simply because they are the greatest remedies in the world and will not fail to cure if used as recommended. Gentlemen who have stomach troubles, come and get some of our tabloids; you will never regret it. Any person who is ill, come and see if we have not a remedy that will cure you.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

The Game of Draughts.

Draughts in some shape or form is doubtless a very ancient pastime. Indeed, the safest thing to say about it is that its origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. Representations of persons playing at a game resembling draughts
are frequently found on ancient Egyptian
monuments at least 3,000 years old.
The Greeks had a similar game, from whom possibly it passed to the Romans.
At least the old Roman game of latrunculi seems to have been a kind of draughts, though it is doubtful if the game as now played is very ancient.
The game was popular and well known in France and Spain in the seventeenth century and was probably played there and in England centuries before that.
That it was from France the game came into many of the other countries is evident from the fact that the French name—jeu de dames—passed with it.
Dam or dammo was once the regular English name for one of the pieces. In Germany the game is still called dam-spiel, in Holland the board is dambord,
and in Scotland it will be remembered by readers of Dean Ramsay's anecdotes damroil still survives. In the United States the less usual name of chequers, spelled checkers, is employed. Polish,
Spanish, Italian and Turkish draughts are varieties of the same game. The Polish game, which has several peculiarities, was introduced to Paris in 1733 and was at first played on a board of 100 squares with 40 men.—Chambers' Journal.

William Thomson—Lord Kelvin.
William Thomson's father undertook complete charge of his education till he was 10 years old, quickening his latent genius into activity and training him with such skill that the boy, directed along the best methods of work, which had been made exquisitely clear to him, advanced by leaps and bounds into the very arena of the exactness of all the sciences. His classical and general education was likewise carefully attended to by his father. He was matriculated as a student in Glasgow at the early age of 10 years—little more than out of his childhood.

He was a mere youth when he went to St. Peter's college, Cambridge, and at the age of 21 he passed as second wrangler and was first Smith's prizeman.
But ere he had won these honors he was already famous, for his contributions at 18 years of age to the Cambridge and Dublin Mathematical Journal had attracted the attention and excited the wonder of the scientific world in France as well as in England, by their boldness, originality and accuracy.
He was shortly afterward made editor of that famous journal and gathered round him a brilliant staff of writers.
Yet it was his own papers which chiefly aroused the attention of scientists.
When 22 years of age, he was appointed to the chair of natural philosophy in Glasgow, which he has now occupied for 50 years and which will forever be associated with his name.—Good Words.

Napoleon After the Battle of Dresden.
Professor Sloane's "Life of Napoleon," in "The Century," takes up the "Collapse of the Western Empire." In describing the end of the grand army
after the battle of Dresden, Professor Sloane says: "The night of the 7th was spent in indecision as to any one or all of these ideas, but in active preparation for the retreat. Any contingency might be met or a resolve taken when the resulting action. During that night the emperors took two warm baths. The habit of drinking strong coffee to prevent drowsiness had induced attacks of nervousness, and these were not diminished by his load of care. To-day these and other ailments he had had recourse
for some time to frequent tepid baths.
Much has been written about mysterious malady which had been steadily increasing, but the burden of testimony from the emperor's closest associates at this time indicates that in the main he had enjoyed excellent health throughout the second Saxon campaign. There were certainly intervals of self indulgence
and of lassitude, of excessive emotion and depressing self examination, which seemed to require the effect of a physical stimulus; but, on the whole, natural causes, complex, but not inexplicable, sufficiently account for the subsequent disasters.

An Exquisite Dress.

lovely expression she has in her last

"The photographer told her that she had more negative beauty than any woman
he ever saw."—Detroit Free Press.

The Attorney Tree.

The cupey, or, as it is sarcastically called in the English possessions, "the attorney," is one of the most curious,
as it is certainly the most picturesque,
denizens of the virgin forests of the West Indian islands. It belongs to the parasitical family of trees or plants,
but, terrible to relate, it invariably with the basest ingratitude destroys all life
in the unfortunate tree that cherishes it in its early growth. The seeds are borne on the wings of the wind and deposited on the branches of other trees, when they burst into roots, which are dragged toward the ground all round the "nurse" tree. In time these roots reach the ground and strike into the soil.

From this moment the roots grow stronger and stronger, until they resemble a lot of rope ladders thrown over the tree. Next, the parasite sends down a great cord, which twines round the trunk of the supporting tree, at first as though in loving embrace, but it grows tighter and tighter, eventually struggling its benefactor out of existence.
The "nurse" tree, thus killed, rots to decay, and from the immense fibrous roots of the destroyer now springs a great trunk, which rises high into the air. When a cupey is full grown, it presents a magnificent spectacle, for the cordlike roots rise often to 50 or 60 feet and support in midair the vast tree itself.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Why We Do Not Buy English Pictures.

Picture dealers in America have sometimes been criticised because they have done nothing to popularize the works of contemporaneous British painters. But, as I have pointed out more than once,
the high prices at which pictures are sold in England makes it impossible for them to be imported with profit into the United States, even if there were a demand for them, which there is not.
There are a few Americans with galleries who like to own an example or two of such men as Buns-Jones, Watts, Leighton, Millais, Alma-Tadema, Walter Crane and Boughton, but that is about all.

Modern French pictures, for 20 years past at least, have been preferred in America to all others, and, as a rule, when bought discreetly, they have greatly increased in value. On the other hand, the reports of London auction rooms for several years have shown a continually decreasing demand for work of even such of the most popular of the native artists, and as there is little or no market for them outside of Great Britain and the colonies they are often sold at a great loss to the owners.—Art America.

The Captain of The Standard.

Charles Dickens was not a militant editor. Starting The Daily News with great zeal, he soon wearied of his self imported task and resigned the editorship, "tired to death and quite worn out." But in this century America has not had a monopoly of the fighting capiton. Captain Hamner, formerly in control of The Standard, gave a conspicuous example of pugilistic skill. "He had driven down with Mrs. Hamner to the office, leaving her in the cab for a few minutes. While he was away the driver addressed her in French, she did not like
"Tom," she said, when her husband reappeared. "This man has spoken imperiously." "Get down from your perch at once," said the journalist. The man, with an oath, descended. Hamner bowed him first on one ear, then on the other.
When the cabman squared up to the editor, the latter slipped at night and left into his opponent, polishing him off
very neatly."—Gentleman's Magazine.

James's Saracens.

Professor Jewett's comments on the young men in Balliol often took the form of crushing sarcasms. "The college," Mr. X. thinks highly of you,"
he once said, "perhaps too highly, but not half so highly, I am sure, as you think of yourself." After a lengthy survey of Jewett's person, as if one was some were animal, he has been known to exclaim to the instructor, "Mr. A. is an impatient young man, is he not, Mr.
Y?"
